Community Input Sessions ensure residents help shape economic future of the County

The County will be hosting three Community Input Sessions to gather feedback and opinions from residents and interested parties about our Growth and Economic Development Strategy. Sessions will be held in various locations throughout the County from April 25 - 27.

“The Strategy is a once-in-a-generation plan that will have a direct impact on every resident for the next 50 years. It is crucial that as many people as possible provide their ideas, and that is why the County is hosting these Sessions. The opinions and feedback we gather over the course of these three evenings will be incorporated into our plans and will help shape the future of the economy for the entire region,” said Nick Lapp, Planning & Development Services Director.

The Growth and Economic Development Strategy is a proactive plan that will explore the County’s current and future economic opportunities. The Strategy will outline ways to supplement the County’s rich agriculture, resource and tourism-based economy by focusing on developing sustainable, socially responsible growth in conjunction with a diversified economy.

Community Input Sessions will be held from 6 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. along with a presentation at 6:30 p.m. at the following locations.

- Tuesday, April 25 – Grande Prairie Alliance Church, Clairmont
- Wednesday, April 26 – Teepee Creek Hall, Teepee Creek
- Thursday, April 27 – Philip J. Currie Dinosaur Museum

“Residents who are unable to attend a Community Input Session can still provide their ideas and stay informed by joining the online conversation and by signing up for email notifications. By doing so, you will receive information about all new initiatives, as well as updates on surveys, events, project news and more,” added Lapp.

For session information, to sign up for email updates, and to participate in the online discussion, go to www.mycountygp.ca.
