Popular Bus Tour Rolls Out Tomorrow

150 people are expected to take part in our annual Rural Beautification bus tour Friday.

County Council initiated the program in 2002 to encourage civic pride and recognize residents for their remarkable efforts to beautify and preserve the rural landscapes throughout the County. As more and more residents and businesses decided to participate in the program, it became impossible to tour the entire County in one day. That led to the program focusing on different areas of the County each year. This year's tour will showcase five private residences, a hamlet and one business in the eastern half of the County that were selected by nomination.

“This is a wonderful opportunity for residents to have their properties recognized and be rewarded for all of their hard work,” said County Agriculture Fieldman Mary Lupwayi.

The County will present the recognized families and businesses with a gift in Council later this year. The participants are also acknowledged in the County Connections newsletter.
